THE ABOVE SAUCE is not only the most POPULAR condiment, but is the most economical, as a few drops in Soup, Gravy, or with Fish, hot and cold, in many of the best Dishes, does more than most meat, which unscrupulous Sauce manufacturers have been endeavoring to imitate.

To the respectable, Lancashire, English, or Superior Table of cook containing "LEA & PERRINS' WORCE-STERSHIRE SAUCE" is indispensable.

To appreciate the excellent quality of this delicious preparation it is only necessary to purchase a small quantity of the genuine, of a respectable grocer or dealer, to many of whom the name of LEA & PERRINS is well known, and to compare the taste of the sauce with the Pure Sauce before their guests, but substitute a

NEW YORK, May 11.

The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, under date of May 10th, says that persons have arrived from the Army of the Potomac leaving there on Saturday evening, who state that the army is in the best of spirits, with everything in readiness to recross the river.

Some corps crossed last evening. Having obtained permission of the President to recross the Rappahannock, after demonstrating the importance of the movement, Gen. Hooker asked that his communications might be properly guarded in his rear. The promise to attend to this was given, as well as the positive promise that additional means of ammunition and supply should be furnished, and that Gen. Sigel should again lead his troops.

During Wednesday and Thursday Gen. Hooker detailed several regiments to gather up the wounded and bury the dead on the south bank of the river. The number of rebels found uninterred was very large, and it is lived no effort was made by the enemy to bury his dead slaughtered by our army during the five days battles at Chancellorsville. Fortunately, the weather was cool, and the rain served as a balm to ease the wounded from some of their sufferings. The fact that the enemy had left thus suddenly confirmed Gen. Hooker in the belief that the rebels had been very much cut up, and that they contemplated a retreat if that course was found practicable. Accordingly, on Thursday evening, before the rain had ceased falling, Gen. Hooker ordered across the river the 1st and 5th corps, under Gen. Sedgwick. Owing to the horrible condition of the roads but little progress was made, and Gen. Hooker on Friday directed his attention to the crossing of the whole army at Banks's and United States Fords. During the day the positions for each corps was designated, and Gen. Hooker was busy in giving instructions to his various Generals concerning his proposed pursuit of Lee's army.

The question Where have the rebels gone? is going around unanswered in the hotels to-day. It is the opinion of military men that they have fallen back in two columns; one toward Richmond and the other toward Gordonsville.

donville, in the hope of concentrating with Longstreet's forces in front of Richmond, once more to give us battle. The next engagement will take place most probably on or near the upper Pamunkey River, whither Gen. Hooker is moving as rapidly as possible. Many maintain that the James River will be the next line that the rebels will defend. This may or may not be secure, as Gens. Peck, Keyes, and Naglee may decide.

There is a report here to-day that our army is in motion South, and that skirmishing with the rear-guard of the enemy has commenced.

It is reported here that Fredericksburg and

The heights of St. Marie were occupied by our troops to-day.

The Richmond and Potomac Railroad south of Fredericksburg will be put in order again as soon as it will be safe to work upon it.

Troops are arriving here again, and it is rumored that another army will advance South to support Hooker in a day or two.

[Special to the Evening Post.]

WASHINGTON, May 11.

The steamer John A. Warner arrived at Washington on Saturday night with despatches from General Hooker. She left Aquia Creek on Saturday.

The following is reported to be the substance of these despatches: At daybreak on Friday morning General Hooker pushed forward two corps of his army across the Rappahannock. They were under command of Gen. Sedgwick. They gathered up the wounded who were left on the field of the recent battles, comprising both Union and rebel soldiers, and buried the dead at an early hour this morning.

Gen. Hooker completed the crossing of his entire army, together with a complete supply of ammunition and stores sufficient to last eight days. As soon as he was across the whole seven corps were placed in motion and de-played right and left in search of the enemy, who, at the latest accounts, had not been found in force. Owing to the terrible condition of the roads, the movement of the army must be necessarily slow for a day or two, but the coming week will probably witness the greatest conflict on this continent. Gen. Hooker does not desire reinforcements.

It is believed that Heintzelman has gone to reinforce Hooker, but there is no doubt but his army is in motion.

WASHINGTON, May 11.

Jas. Madison Cuts, Second Comptroller of the Treasury, died this morning.

The Richmond Examiner of the 7th says: "The destruction of large trains of government wagons at Aylett Station, and the stores of grain at that place, is the most serious loss we have suffered from the Federal raid. The government was deriving large supplies from that section, and, unfortunately, within the last week largely increased its wagon train." Another article says that, in consequence of active operations in the field and limited transportation, the wounded on the field and at Guinea's Depot are suffering for food.

NEW YORK, May 11.

The Post says we learn by special ad-from Washington that General Halleck is about to take the field in person—not, it is understood, with the purpose of relieving Gen. Hooker from his command, but that he may be in the very presence of transpiring events, and the better able to influence their general direction. The authority upon which we have this information is usually well informed.

It is a significant fact, and one which will increase the confidence of the country in Gen. Hooker, that he did not execute his late retrograde movement until he had planned his present one, and had become satisfied of its

The celebration of the anniversary of the capture of Camp Jackson to-day was a great success. The procession was one of the finest and longest ever seen in St. Louis, consisting of Generals Curtis, Davidson, Strong, Vandever, Edwards and staffs, the staff of Governor Gamble, four regiments of volunteer infantry, five regiments of enrolled militia, a battery of volunteer artillery, and a large number of mounted troops.

Gen. Curtis reviewed the troops on Washington Avenue about noon, after which the procession started for Camp Jackson, the scene of the first capture of armed traitors in the war, where the meeting was held. Thousands of flags were displayed, and the houses along the line of the procession were decorated with appropriate devices. All the business houses were closed and the streets thronged with enthusiastic people. Chauncey I. Filey, Mayor

Gen. Curtis and several other distinguished officers occupied the speakers' stand. Speeches were made by Chas. P. Major, D. P. Indiana, Chas. P. Johnson, and Colonel G. N. Siting. A resolution was adopted, paying a fitting tribute to Gen. Lyon and his gallant volunteers, who, by their capture of the traitor in Camp Jackson, preserved St. Louis and Missouri to the Union; renewing the pledge of fidelity to the Union, and urging upon the Federal authorities a most vigorous prosecution of the war, recognized as legitimate.

among civilized nations and declaring as public enemies all who strive to obstruct the rightful authorities in the suppression of this rebellion and who are unwilling to aid in maintaining the Government under which they live and desire protection, pledging their co-operation with the Commander of this Department and all others in authority in their efforts to drive traitors and rebel sympathizers from our midst, and to this end authorized the President of the meeting to appoint a committee of seven citizens to represent our views to the President of the United States, and urge the enforcement of such measures as will be ure the welfare of the loyal people of the State of Missouri. The President was also empowered to appoint a committee to secure a portion of the Camp Jackson ground, and to make all necessary arrangements for the erection of a monument to the memory of General Lyon. Over 10,000 people were present, and these resolutions not only passed unanimously but with great enthusiasm.

A. D. Richardson, a correspondent of the New York Tribune, reported last on the turn burned before Vicksburg a few days ago, is prisoner in the hands of the rebels, but will probably soon be released.

WASHINGTON, May 11. Maj.-Gen. Hitchcock has been assigned to duty, temporarily, as Acting Military Governor of Washington, Gen. Martindale having obtained a brief leave of absence.

It is said the rebels already have a large force engaged in rebuilding the Orange and Alexandria railroad bridge over the Rapidan, destroyed in the course of the late raid by Stoneman's cavalry.

Information from the Nangemond represents the river clear of rebel batteries and sharpshooters, and steamers are running to Suffolk as usual.

A large number of rebel prisoners were sent away to-day by steamer for exchange at Cien Point.
